Givaudan secures CDP A for supplier climate engagement

Recognised once again on CDP's Supplier Engagement Assessment Leaderboard

Givaudan has once again been awarded a place on the CDP Supplier Engagement Assessment (SEA) Leaderboard, achieving an A rating for engaging its supply chain on climate action.

CDP's annual Supplier Engagement Assessment evaluates how effectively companies work with their suppliers to address climate-related issues. The Leaderboard highlights those demonstrating leadership in fostering collaboration throughout their supply chains and accelerating progress towards a net zero, sustainable economy together.

Christian Stammkoetter, CEO of Givaudan, said:

“With more than 90% of our emissions coming from our supply chain, collaboration with our suppliers is not just part of our strategy, it's essential to achieving our ambition to reach net-zero GHG emissions across our value chain by 2045. Stabilising our Scope 3 emissions in 2025 – even as our business continued to grow – marked a defining moment in this journey, proving that real progress is possible when ambition is matched with action and partnership across our entire value chain.

“Today's recognition from CDP highlights the impact of our shared commitment and the central role of our Scope 3 emissions to delivering on our climate ambition as we continue driving meaningful progress together with our suppliers.”
